Korach - קורח
July 2, 2022 – Tammuz 3, 5782

In this week's Parasha we read of a rebellion against Moses' leadership. Korah, a cousin of Moses, accuses Moses and Aaron of taking too much power for themselves. Moses, being the leader, and Aaron being the High Priest, does not leave much for anyone else.

Korah claims that Moses could have picked anyone from the community as the entire congregation is holy. Moses defends himself by saying that God chose Aaron. However, if Korah and the 250 individuals who are siding with him feel that they could serve in the Temple, they should each bring incense burners and stand before the Temple, and God will choose the right person for the job. This rebellion ends with Korah being swallowed by the ground and all 250 followers dying in a fire.
