The Light of Menorah, Elena Kotliarker

In last week's Parasha, Moses asked the Children of Israel to bring all kinds of things to be used in the building of the Tabernacle. This week, more details are given related to the Temple, its content and who will serve in the temple. For the Menorah, which was described in last week's Parasha, we need oil. Moses is commanded to ask the Children of Israel to contribute pure olive oil which will be used in lighting the Menorah daily. Aaron, the high priest, will have the honor of Lighting the Menorah.

This Parasha also describes the various garments that Aaron and his sons will wear when they are performing the service in the temple. There are also detailed instructions on how Aaron and his sons will be initiated into the service of the Temple.

On This Day in Jewish History: 15 Adar

Yahrtzeit of Rabbi Tzvi Hirsch Kaidonover (1646-1712), author of the ethical work, Kav HaYashar ("The Just Measure"). As a boy, during the war between Sweden and Poland, he fled with his family to a village near Lublin. Two years later they were attacked by Cossacks, and his two sisters were killed. Kav HaYashar posits that it is incumbent upon any person who has been saved from a crisis to either correct something in his life or initiate a good deed, so that people will be aware that he is expressing his gratitude to God. This idea, he says, applies to everyone, for who can say he has never been saved from a tragedy?
